FUNERAL BOOKLET
THEMES

Funeral Booklets

During the funeral arrangement, we will discuss with the family the available options for funeral booklets.

The following pages include a range of design ideas to help you get started, and we can tailor each design to suit the individual. We always provide a proof for the family to review, ensuring every detail is correct. At Westella, our funeral booklets are professionally printed to a high standard.

Bookmarks

We understand that funeral booklets may not appeal to everyone, and bookmarks are a thoughtful alternative. They are perfect for those who prefer something simpler or for honouring a loved one who was an avid reader.

Each bookmark is designed to reflect the individual, and we usually gather inspiration during the funeral arrangement meeting.

Let Me Go

Let Me Go

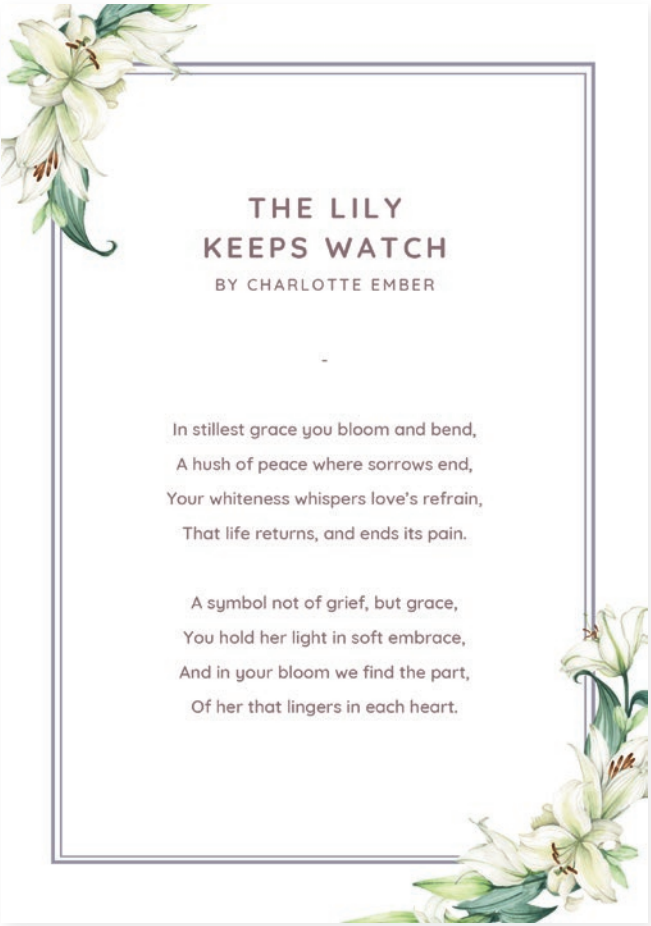

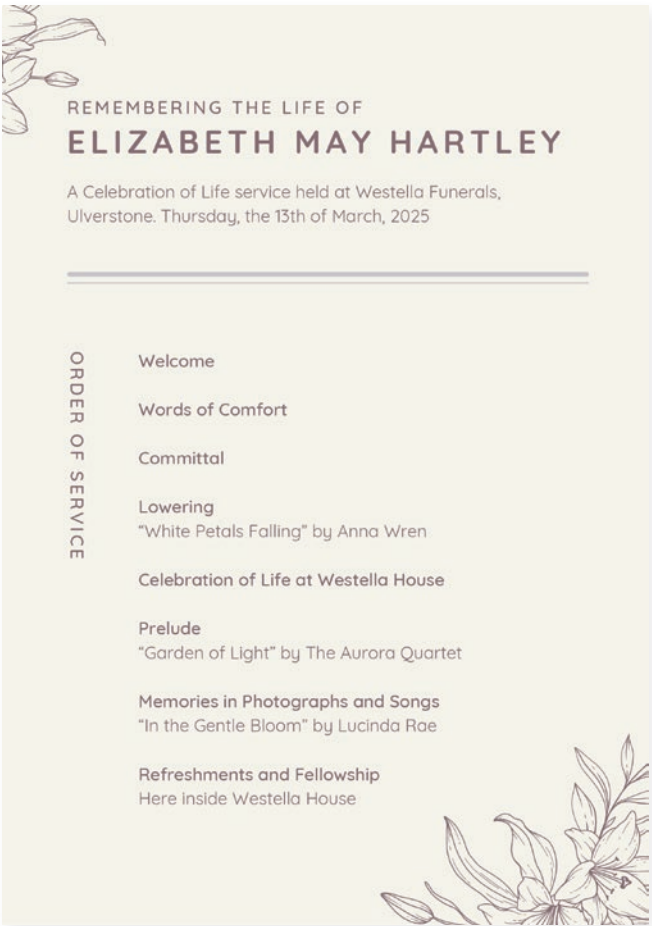

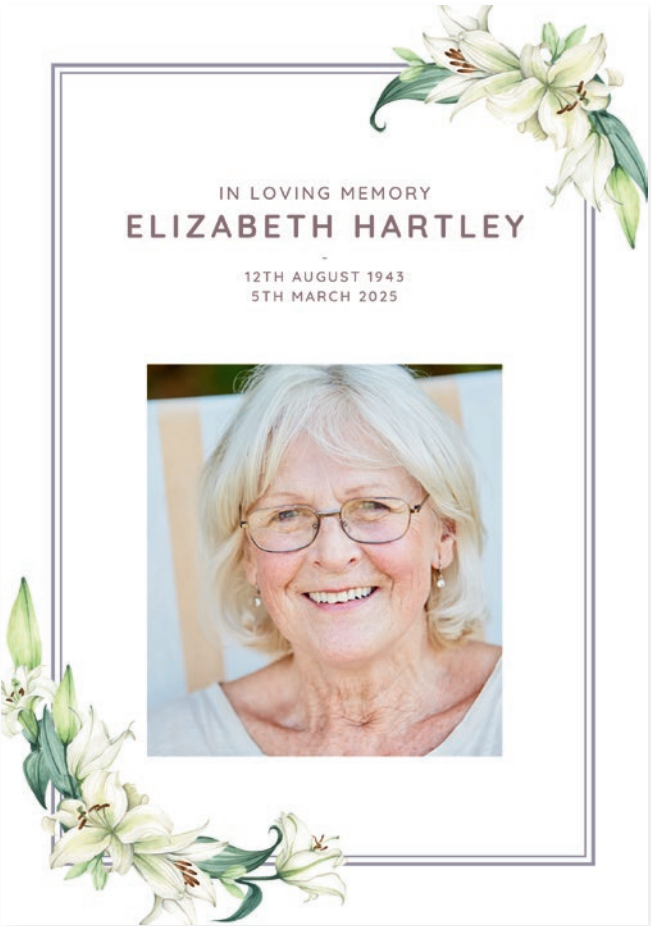

When I come to the end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom filled room
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little, but not for long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that once we shared
Miss me, but let me go.
For this is a journey we all must take
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the master plan
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart
Go to the friends we know.
Laugh at all the things we used to do
Miss me, but let me go.

By Christina Rossetti

AMONG THE WILDFLOWERS

BY LEONIE HART

She wandered where the wild blooms grew,
In sunlit fields and morning dew,
With grevillea, banksia, wattle gold,
A quiet strength both brave and bold.

The bushland heard her gentle tread,
In rustling gum leaves overhead,
A soul attuned to nature's song,
A place where wild hearts belong.

Her life, like paper daisy bright,
Held layers soft and stems of might,
Not tamed, not tied, but freely sown,
A native beauty all her own.

So plant her memory in the land,
In every bloom and grain of sand,
And when the bush begins to sing,
You'll feel her spirit in the spring.

THANK YOU

Elaine's family sincerely thank you for your expressions of sympathy and attendance here today. You are warmly invited to

EVENING GLOW

BY ANNABELLE CLARKE

The day retires in gold and flame,
A peaceful hush, the world reclaimed,
As shadows stretch and breezes slow,
She walks into the evening glow.

No rush, no fear, no need to run,
Her journey closes with the sun,
Each ray a thread, each hue a sigh,
That whispers softly, not goodbye.

The clouds drift by like thoughts set free,
Above the hush of land and sea,
And somewhere past the edge of sight,
She walks in peace, bathed in light.

So lift your eyes as twilight nears,
Let not your hearts be filled with tears,
Her love still glows, serene and slow,
Alive within the evening glow.

WHISPERS OF THE SHORE

by Eliza Vaughan

She walked along the ocean's edge,
Where waves would kiss the sand,
A soul in tune with morning tides,
And footprints left unplanned.

The breeze would hum her gentle tune,
The shells would speak her name,
Each pebble smoothed by years and tears,
Each tide a soft refrain.

She found her peace where seagulls cry,
And sunlight touched the foam,
Where sea and sky would intertwine,
She always felt at home.

Now though her feet no longer tread,
The shoreline sings her song,
In every hush, a memory—
A love that lingers long.

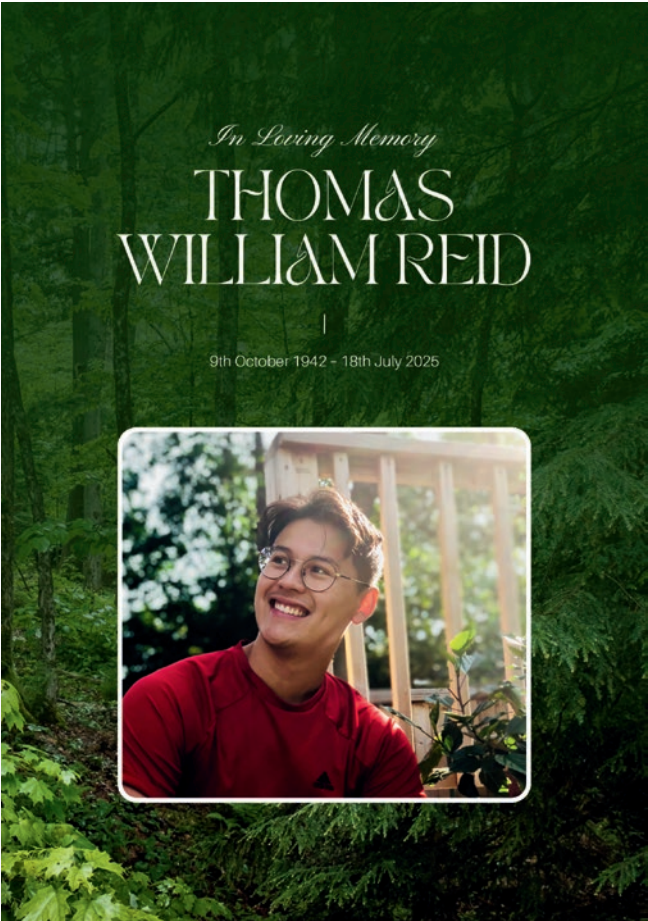

So when you hear the ocean's hush,
Or feel the salty air,
Remember she is near the shore,
And always, always there.

Thank you

Emily's family sincerely thank you for your expressions of sympathy and attendance here today. You are warmly invited to join them after the service for afternoon tea and sharing of memories at Westella Funerals, 68 Westella Drive, Ulverstone.

THE TREES

by Laurence Wren

He walked where dappled light would dance,
Beneath the boughs so wide,
A quiet man with forest thoughts,
With nature as his guide.

The trunks would rise like pillars tall,
A cathedral without stone,
And there within the hush of green,
He felt completely known.

The chorus of the woodland life,
The rustle, chirp, and breeze,
Would sing to him in gentle tones,
A life lived close to trees.

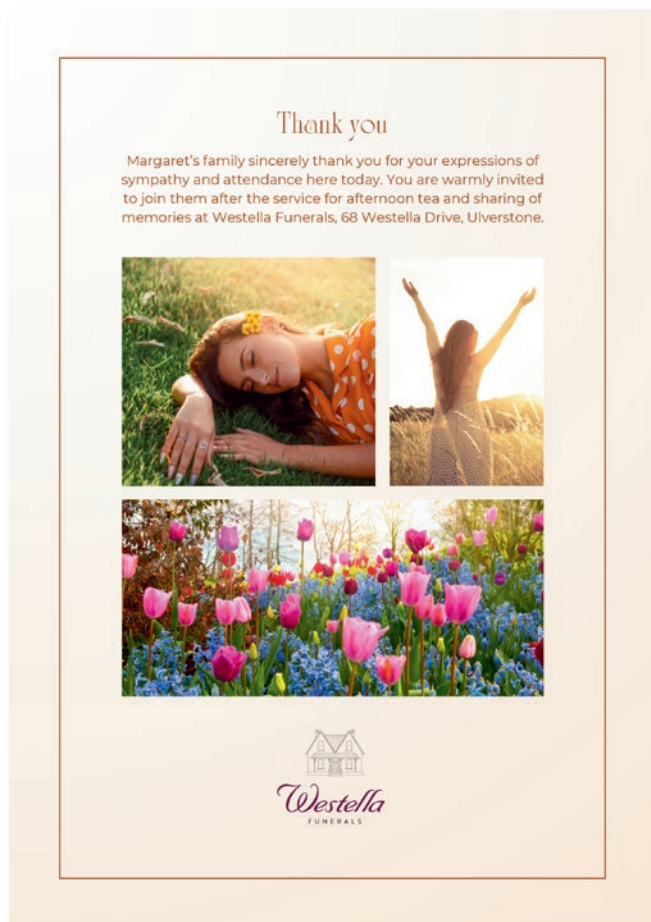

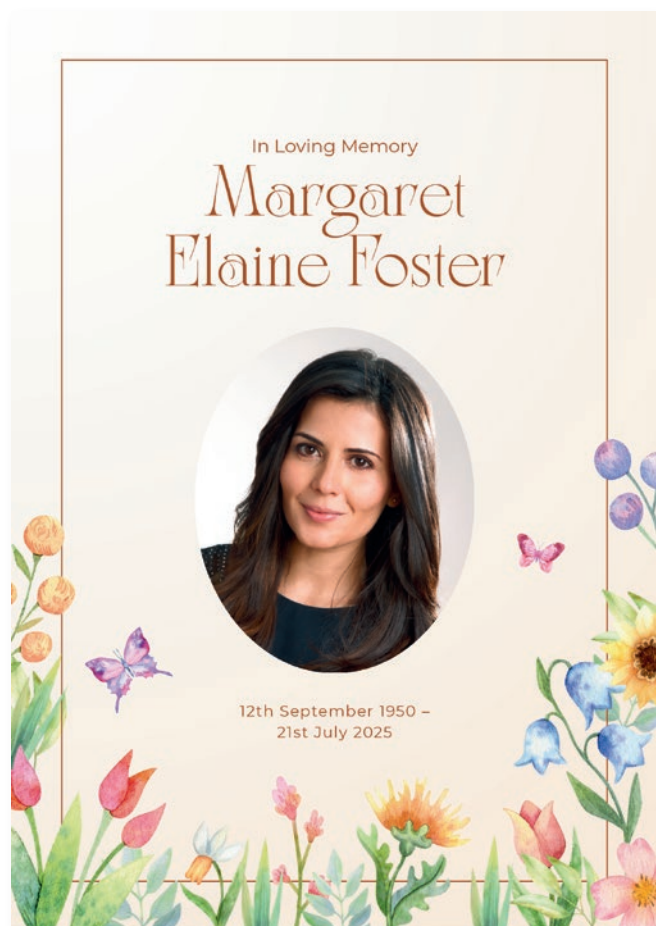

Now leaves may fall and seasons turn,
But memory takes root,
In mossy earth and hollowed trunks,
And trails he once would foot.

THE AUTUMN PATH
by Laurence Hale

The leaves turn gold where once were green,
A quiet change, so calm, serene.
The wind, it sings a softer song,
As if it knows where you belong.

You walked the years with steady pace,
With kindness worn upon your face.
And in the hush of amber light,
You left with grace into the night.

Each branch that bends, each leaf that falls,
Now whispers through the forest halls.
Though we may grieve the loss we feel,
Your love is deep, your memory real.

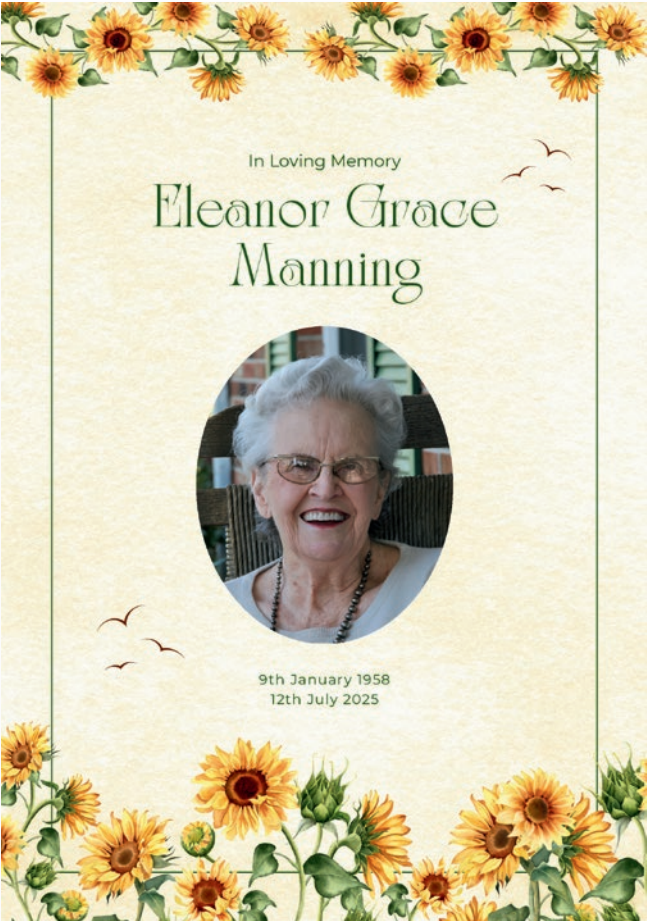

In autumn's hush, we'll think of you,
In skies of smoke and flame-kissed hue.
The world turns on, but not the same—
We walk with you in every flame.

THE QUIET SEASON

BY VERA LYSANDER

The world grew hushed as winter came,
With breath like glass and silver flame.
A time to pause, to still the air,
And hold our grief with gentle care.

The trees stood bare, yet not alone,
For roots run deep in frozen stone.
And though the snow lay soft and wide,
A quiet love walked at our side.

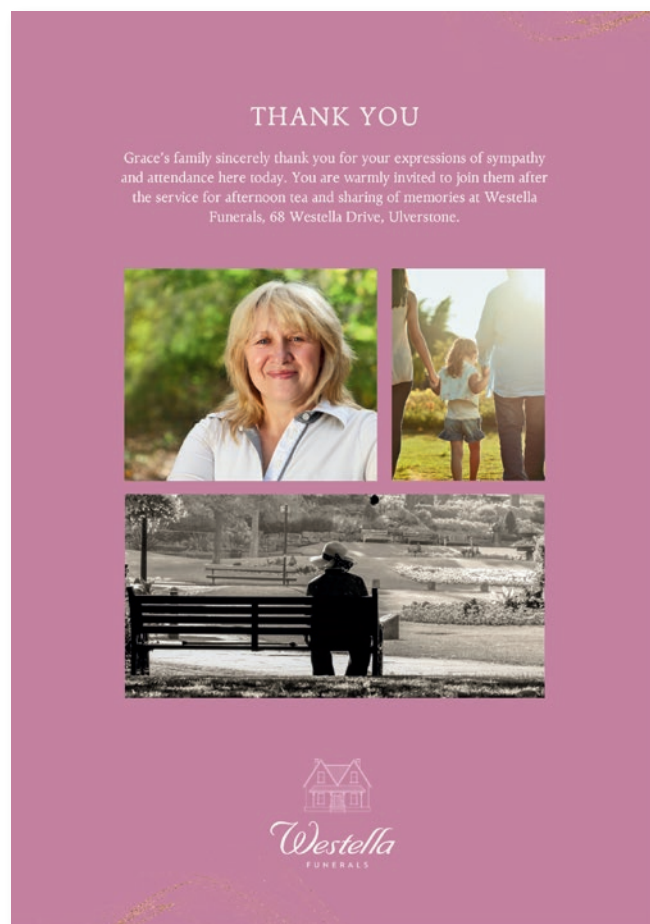

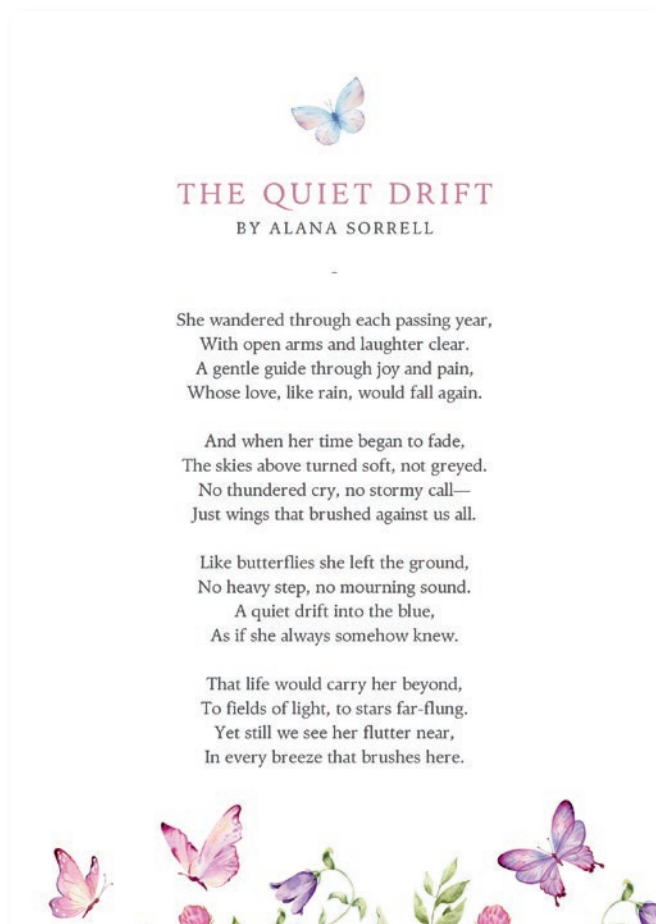

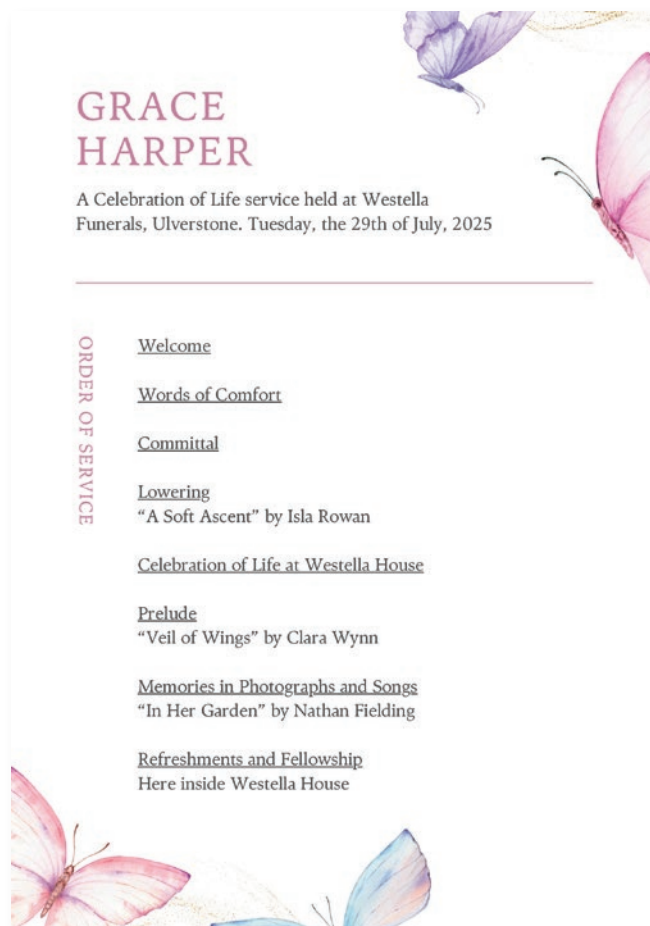

He lived with strength, with measured grace,
Like winter stars in velvet space.
And now the silence that remains,
Is filled with love that never wanes.

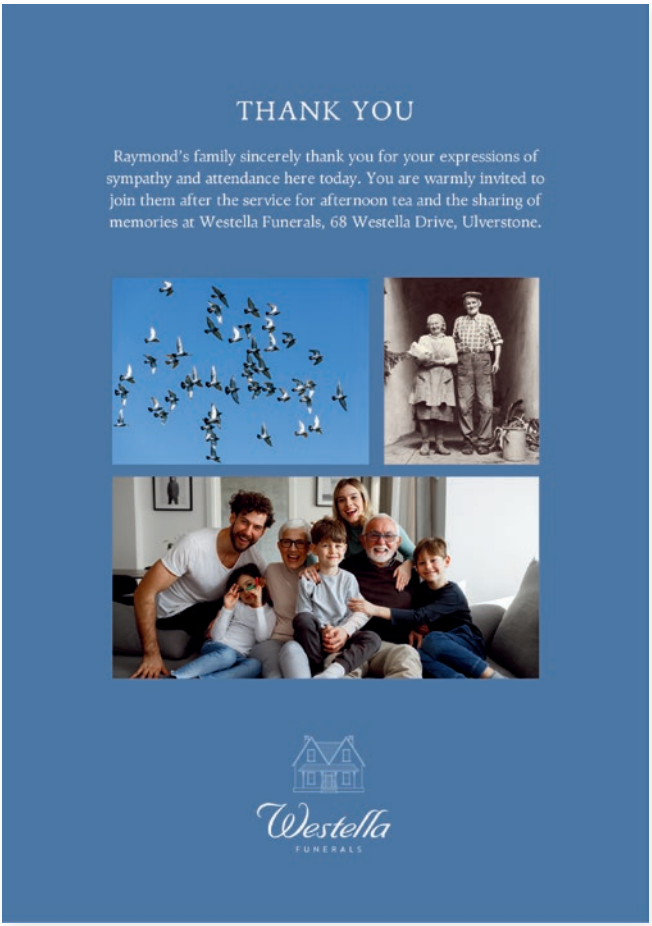

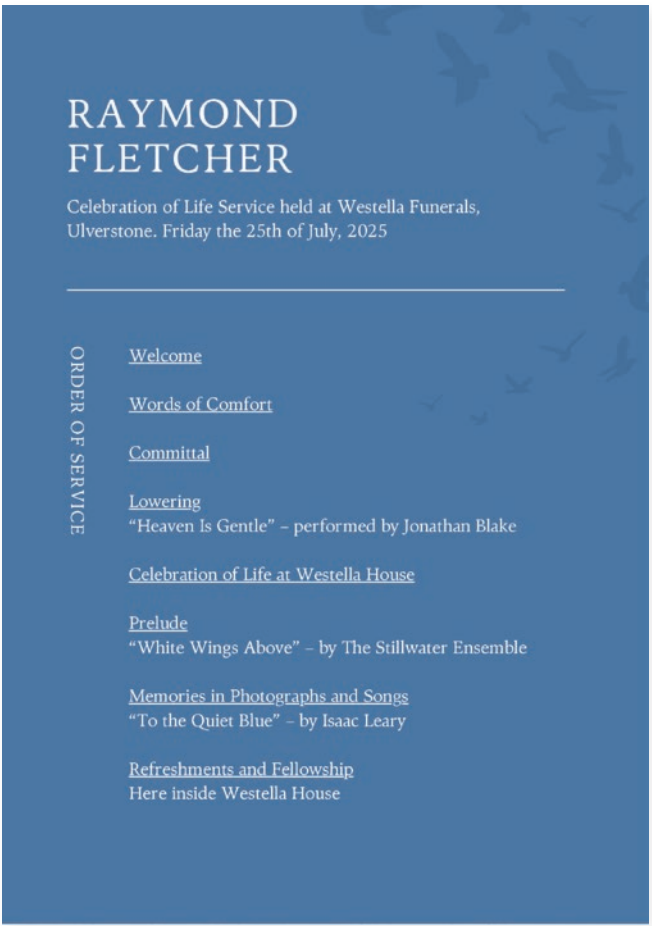

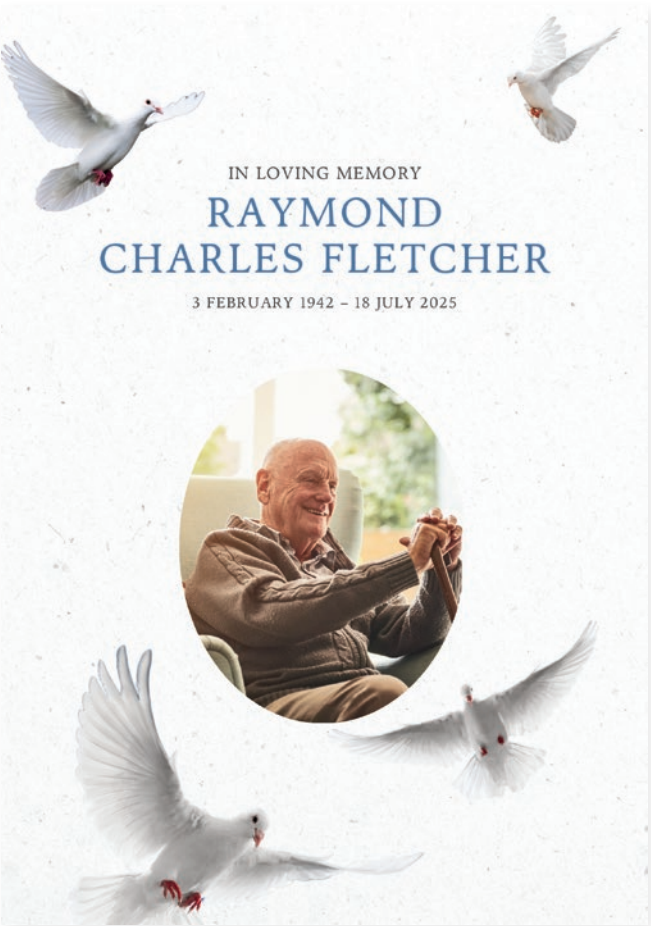

So in the frost, when winds are low,
We'll hear his voice within the snow.
A whisper soft, a memory bright,
A soul at peace in winter's light.

The Rows He Left Behind

BY ANGUS FERRELL

He sowed his days with steady hand,
Each furrow shaped by love and land.
At dawn he rose to meet the light,
And worked till dusk gave way to night.

The soil he turned, the seeds he laid,
Each harvest bloomed, each promise stayed.
His boots wore paths through open ground,
Where memories in silence sound.

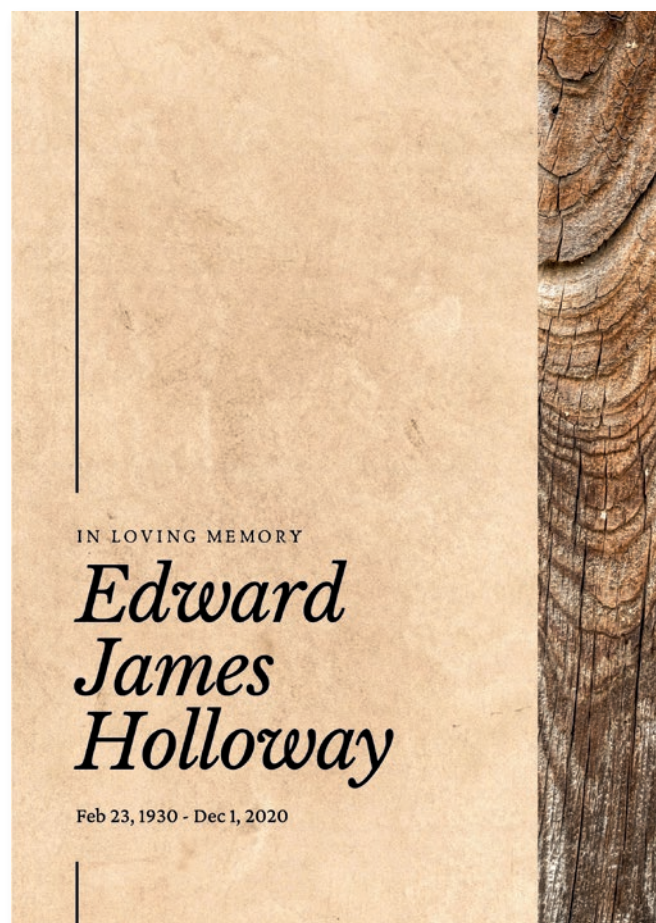

The barn still holds his laughter low,
The wind still hums the songs he'd know.
Though now the fields lie still and wide,
His legacy walks by our side.

CANDLES BURN

by Imogen Blake

Where candles burn, their warm embrace
Illuminates an absent face.
Though shadows fall and silence grows,
The light she left still gently glows.

Each flicker speaks of moments dear—
Of whispered laughs we still can hear.
In every flame, a love remains,
Unspoken yet it never wanes.

The wax may melt, the wick may fade,
But not the mark her spirit made.
She lit our hearts with quiet grace,
And left the world a gentler place.

So when the evening draws in tight,
We'll honour her in candlelight.

APRON STRINGS

by Hannah Leigh

She measured joy in cups of care,
A dash of love, a kitchen's flare.
With wooden spoon and warming smile,
She fed our hearts with every mile.

The scent of scones, the roast on low,
The way her laughter seemed to glow.
Each meal she made, a sacred rite,
That turned the darkest day to light.

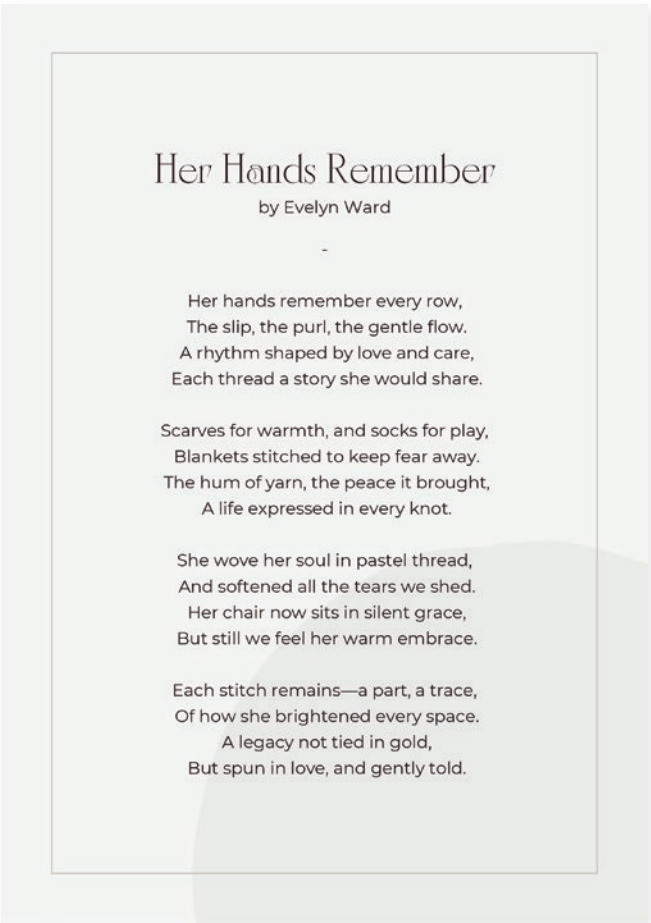

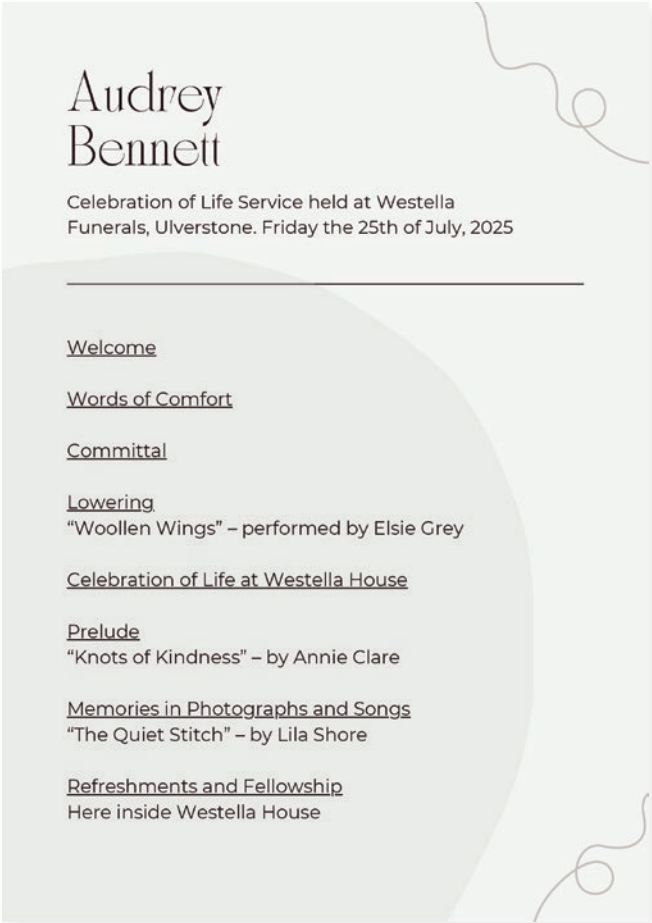

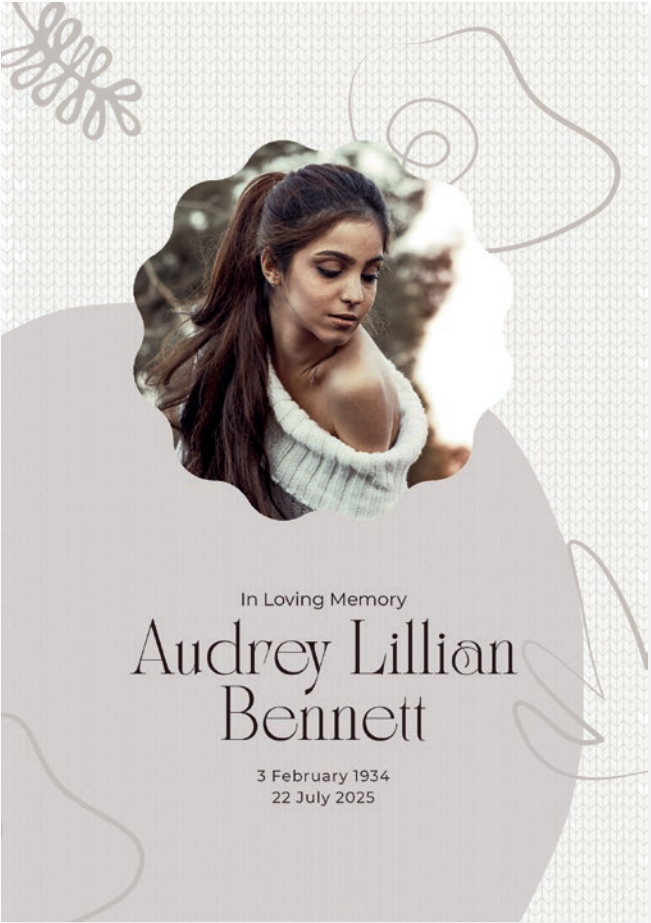

She stirred her soul into the stew,
And baked her hopes into the brew.
Though now her oven lies at rest,
We carry on her simple zest.

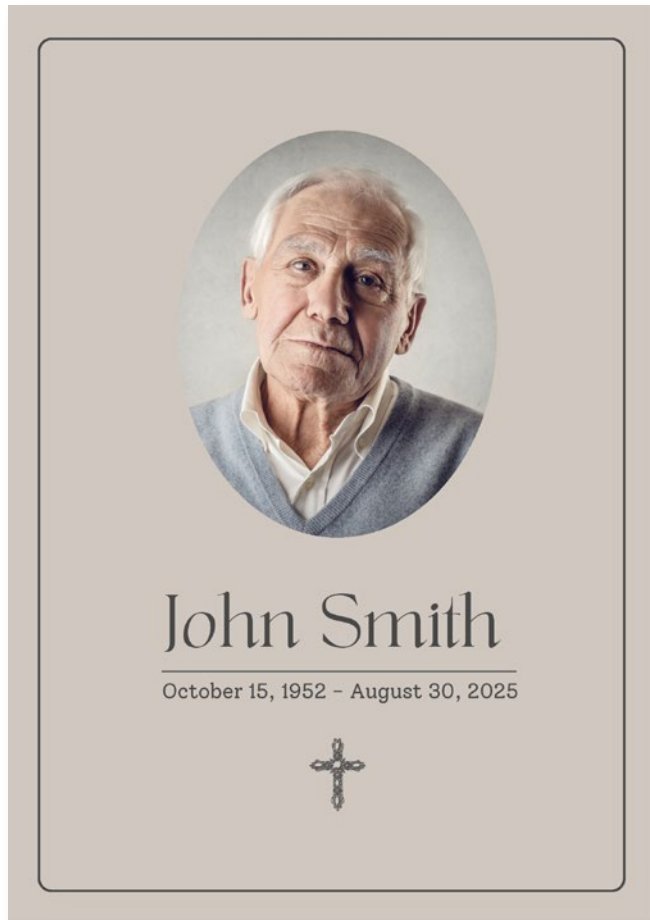

So gather round, and take your seat—
Her love lives on in what we eat.

In the land of Lorem, where Ipsum flows,
Words dance like rivers, where imagination grows.
Velit esse cillum, a tale to unfold,
In shadows of dreams, where secrets are told,
Duis aute irure, with laughter we play,
In verses of whimsy, we drift and sway,
Nostrud exercitation, a journey we take,
Through valleys of language, where hearts gently wake,
Tempor incididunt, in rhythms so bright,
We weave our own magic, igniting the night,
Each stanza a treasure, in stories we weave,
In the realm of Ipsum, there's much to believe!

Poem Name

In the land of Lorem, where Ipsum flows,
Words dance like rivers, where imagination grows.
Velit esse cillum, a tale to unfold,
In shadows of dreams, where secrets are told.
Duis aute irure, with laughter we play,
In verses of whimsy, we drift and sway.
Nostrud exercitation, a journey we take,
Through valleys of language, where hearts gently wake.
Tempor incididunt, in rhythms so bright,
We weave our own magic, igniting the night.
Each stanza a treasure, in stories we weave,
In the realm of Ipsum, there's much to believe!
In the land of Lorem, where Ipsum flows,
Words dance like rivers, where imagination grows.
Velit esse cillum, a tale to unfold,
In shadows of dreams, where secrets are told.
Duis aute irure, with laughter we play,
In verses of whimsy, we drift and sway.
